Course overview

The market demand for veterinary drugs in China is substantial. However, companies must navigate the regulatory barrier due to China's distinct and separate regulatory system.

This course aims to provide practical advice and guidance on successfully obtaining market approval for veterinary drugs in China. Participants will gain a comprehensive understanding of the necessary requirements.

Throughout the programme, expert speakers will elucidate relevant regulations, and registration procedures through presentations, while also addressing participant questions.

You may also be interested in our Animal Feed and Feed Additive Registration in China and Thailand course running on the same day!
